- Starting Monday, December 14, a cart loaded with items from the Gift Shop in Moffitt, will be taken to all of the patient floors. This "Gift Shop on Wheels" will enable patients to easily purchase gifts for their families and friends. In addition, the Volunteer Office is accepting "Wish Lists" from patients on all of the nursing units. Several community groups have offered to help fill these patients' needs.
- Any decorated nursing unit or department wishing to participate in a "Deck the Halls" contest should notify the Volunteer Office at x1196. Judging will take place on Friday, December 18.
- A Hanukkah service will be televised on closed circuit TV to all patients on Sunday, December 20. A Christmas mass will be celebrated on Christmas Eve at 7 p.m. and on Christmas Day at 11:30 a.m. on the 14th floor of Moffitt in the Solarium. Both ceremonies also will be shown on closed circuit TV.
- Spouses of house staff members will be making Christmas stockings to be given to the parents of all babies born at UCSF on Christmas Day.

Due to the holiday vacation, January pay checks will be distributed on campus on Monday, January 4.

The UCSF Marching Band is looking for people who can play flute, clarinet, saxophone, trumpet, sousaphone, snare drum, trombone or french horn. Practice will be starting soon for Founders Day activities. If you would like to join the Marching Band, contact Pat Duffy, Office of the Vice Chancellor, Personnel and Student Services, x4318.

The Department of Pediatrics has received a $600,000 four-year grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to consolidate health services for S.F. youth who are at high risk for serious health problems.

The program, based at SFGH, will coordinate and strengthen services that already exist in the city to address venereal disease, teenage pregnancy, alcohol abuse, drug abuse, violence and mental illness. S.F.'s incidence of these problems is higher than the national average.

Co-directors of the project are Richard C. Brown, director of Adolescent Medicine at SFGH, and Charles E. Irwin, Jr., director of Adolescent Medicine at UCSF.

Collaborating in the program are the City and County Health Department, Mount Zion Hospital, Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center, Letterman General Hospital, the S.F. Unified School District and a variety of community service agencies including Hospitality House and the S.F. Youth Guidance Center. Also participating are the UCSF/SFGH departments of Obstetrics/Gynecology and Reproductive Sciences, Psychiatry, Family Practice, Surgery and the UCSF Health Policy Program.

UCSF is one of 20 teaching hospitals selected nationally to receive grants for such a program.

Maggie Kuhn, national convener and founder of the Gray Panthers, will speak on Thursday, December 17 at noon in Room HSW 303.

Kuhn is well known as an author, lecturer and social activist who has made essential contributions toward improving the image of aging in society and offering a positive role model of what is possible in old age. She is the recipient of the Humanist of the Year Award from the American Humanist Association and the National Freedom Award from Roosevelt University in Chicago.

Kuhn's appearance is sponsored by the Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences and the Aging Health Policy Center of the School of Nursing. For further information call x5832.

For the third year in a row, a UCSF researcher has received a fellowship from the John A. Hartford Foundation of New York City.

Vishwanath R. Lingappa, MD, PhD, is one of 12 Hartford Fellows for 1982, selected through a national competition among medical and research institutions. The prestigious fellowships allow promising and highly qualified young physicians to pursue careers in biomedical research.

The three-year fellowship will allow Lingappa to assume the position of assistant professor of Physiology and Medicine. He will work primarily in the interdisciplinary endocrine program which fosters endocrine research throughout the campus.

Along with its early career support for physicians in medical research, the Hartford Foundation also makes grants to stimulate health care payment system reforms and to promote efficient energy use.

A new program called "Visit Vision" has been set up in both UC and Moffitt lobbies for patients who cannot have visitors in their rooms. Visitors can now go to the lobbies, dial the patient's telephone number and see the patient on closed circuit TV and talk by phone. Instructions have been placed above connecting telephones in each hospital lobby.

Patients also can now tune into Sunday religious services on Channel 13.

The Radiation Oncology Department recently celebrated its move to the Center for Educational Development at 1855 Folsom Street — a move that involves expansion, consolidation of laboratories and a new laboratory director.

The new $1.2 million facility, funded in part by the National Cancer Institute, houses a research laboratory with animal care facilities, in which a unique defined flora mouse breeding colony will be established. Cell tissue culture and biochemical studies also are conducted in the laboratory.

The new laboratory, under the direction of William C. Dewey, PhD, studies the effects of radiation drugs and hyperthermia at the molecular, cellular and animal level in order to better understand and improve the effectiveness of radiation therapy treatment. Dewey, who most recently was professor and acting chair of Radiology and Radiation Biology, Colorado State University, is internationally recognized for his work in this area.

The new facility also provides space for the department's academic administrative functions. Donald P. Highfield is administrator of the laboratories and academic affairs.

Additional Radiation Oncology research is conducted on the 16th floor of HSE under William Wara, MD. The department also has four clinical facilities in other parts of the city: Moffitt Hospital (soon to be moved into the new Long Hospital), Ralph K. Davies Medical Center, Mount Zion Medical Center, and Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory. Department chair is Theodore Phillips, MD.

The Brain Tumor Research Center has received a generous donation from a very grateful father and daughter.

Three years ago Jennifer Nadia Slusher was diagnosed with a very rare cystic tumor at the base of her brain. The deadly tumor already had begun to cause changes in her behavior. Jennifer's father, Howard, brought her to UCSF where Charles Wilson, MD, and Felix Conte, MD treated her. Jennifer had quick and perfect results.

Recently a classmate of Jennifer's died with the same disease. This prompted Jennifer to ask her father to raise money so that "kids with my kind of disease can get good treatment." Moved by his daughter's request, Howard Slusher recently presented Dean Krevans with a $5,000 check for the Brain Tumor Research Center.
